The Messenger

From the Pastor

Rev. Jon Zehnder

During the month of July we remember the struggles that our nation went through in its early years – fighting against taxation without representation, long-distance rule by uniformed leaders, forced military service, and the mandatory provision of housing for “foreign” troops.

Of course, when we celebrate our Independence Day on July 4, we usually don't stop to consider the fact that on July 8, 1776, the first public readings of the Declaration were held in Philadelphia's Independence Square to just the ringing of bells and band music. One year later, on July 4, 1777, Philadelphia marked Independence Day by adjourning Congress and celebrating with bonfires, bells and fireworks.

That custom eventually spread to other towns, both large and small, where the day was marked with processions, speeches, picnics, contests, games, military displays and fireworks. Observations throughout the nation became even more common at the end of the War of 1812 with Great Britain.

Congress established Independence Day as a holiday in 1870 and in 1938 Congress reaffirmed it as a paid holiday for federal employees. Today, communities across the nation mark this major midsummer holiday with parades, firework displays, picnics and performances of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and marches by John Philip Sousa.

Well, that's the history of the day and how we celebrate it – but the independence and freedoms that we enjoy today came at a cost to our forefathers (if not some of our own ancestors) of suffering, self-denial, pain, loss of property and even loss of life. Their sacrifice provides us with benefits we now have: we are free to speak, free to vote, free to own our own property, free to worship, free to travel, free to live in any city, town, county or state we may chose.

But all of that was not our doing! It is in fact all part of the great blessings that God has given to us. We can in no way claim them as “rights” we've somehow earned or deserved. We know that, “Every good and perfect gift comes from God.” So God is the ultimate source for all of the blessings we receive. And, spiritually speaking, Jesus is the true source of every grace and blessing – He brings us true freedom! May God bless us and may He continue to bless our United States.

From the Director of Caring MinistriesJulie BerchtoldDeveloping Spiritual Intimacy in MarriageMany marriage partners today feel close to their spouses in every way except spiritually

The young woman in my office was animated, though not upset. “I never dreamed what has happened in our marriage during the past year was possible,” she said. “We’ve gone along for years just sort of ho-hum. Nothing bad, nothing spectacular—just steady. I guess we were in a rut. It was comfortable, and I guess we felt, or I did, that this was the way it would always be. But Jim came home from that men’s conference and made all kinds of changes. Even though they were mostly positive, it took me awhile to adjust.

“The first thing he did was come up to me and apologize for not telling me that he prayed for me every day, and had for years. How would I have ever known? In fact, that’s what I started to say, but I caught myself and thanked him for telling me. A week later he asked me how I would feel about praying together and reading from the Bible occasionally. I have to laugh now because it’s like he wanted me to but wasn’t sure how I would respond. So we did.

“I can’t explain why or what happened, but there is this incredible sense of bonding or closeness now that we never had before. We pray, we read, we share. Sometimes I call him and pray a sentence prayer for him over the phone. He does the same. And our sex life is a whole different story. Others have seen our relationship change. And when they ask, we tell them. I guess we’re finally experiencing what the Bible says about cleaving in the full sense of the word.”

Spiritual bonding. Spiritual intimacy. Spiritual closeness. Desired, yet avoided. Available, yet elusive for so many.

To relate together spiritually means creatively meshing two people’s schedules. You have to be flexible, committed, and have realistic expectations for what you want to happen in the relationship.”

Many marriage partners today feel close to their spouses in every way except spiritually. In that area they feel isolated. Often this isolation cannot be kept in check, and it may creep into other areas of a couples’ life and impact those areas, too. And the more one person wants to be close spiritually and the other resists, the more resentment will build.

Intimacy suggests a very strong personal relationship, a special emotional closeness that includes understanding and being understood by someone who is very special. Intimacy means taking the risk to be close to someone and allowing that someone to step inside your personal boundaries.

Then we come to spiritual intimacy. In his book, The Spiritually Intimate Marriage, Don Harvey has the most complete definition that I’ve found. He says spiritual intimacy is: Being able to share your spiritual self, find this reciprocated, and have a sense of union with your mate.

I know couples who worship regularly together, but there is no spiritual intimacy. I know couples who read the Scripture regularly together, but have no spiritual intimacy. I know couples who pray and share together sporadically, but are lacking in spiritual intimacy. I know some couples who don’t pray and share, yet have spiritual intimacy.

What’s the difference? It seems to be in their attitudes. Spiritual intimacy is a heart’s desire to be close to God and submit to His direction for your lives. It is the willingness to seek His guidance together, to allow the teaching of His Word in your everyday life. It’s a willingness to allow God to help you overcome your sense of discomfort over sharing spiritually and learn to see your marriage together as a spiritual adventure. It’s a willingness to enthrone Jesus Christ as Lord of your lives and to look to Him for direction in your decisions, such as which house to buy, where to go on vacations, or which school is best for the children. It means He will direct both of you, and change your hearts to be in agreement rather than speak just through one of you.

Freedom in knowing. . .

Adam first learned of a knowledge limitation in the Garden. He and his companion Eve were created perfectly and eternally able to know good. Knowing ‘evil’ was a limitation given in love.

God’s creation account chronicles this limitation. God prohibited eating the “fruit of the tree of the knowledge of ‘good’ and ‘evil.’” Knowing that evil would overcome life with death, God protected His people to live forever with Him. However, deceived into thinking they could be ‘like God’, people rebelliously desired equality with God.

Many Christians fail to relate this freedom in knowing to life’s purpose or consequence. The God of perfect wisdom desires eternal peace for people. God didn’t make a creature with limited decision making. People are given knowledge of God and ‘good’ as a gift.

Humankind also has a freewill to choose the knowledge of ‘evil’ and does. The disobedient choice of Adam and Eve, (and us), brings death. Disharmony replaces harmony, resulting in people murdering God’s only Son.

Some Christians know that freedom of knowing good, is a gift of God, who fulfilled His promise to rescue and redeem the future from knowing ‘evil.’ Jesus lived perfectly and rescued all people from a defiant and wayward nature. Easter’s glow shines the full knowledge and freedom of ‘good’ on us.

God gave people freedom to know. Knowledge opens daily doors of thought and action. Faith translates knowledge into a loving call to serve others. The human will’s defiance, caused by the deception of knowing evil, translates into self-interest, despair and destruction.

When earthly life is over, value symbols left behind will transfer to another. Transferring life’s treasures can benefit or injure. Those with faith’s gift of knowing good, will plan to bless, not curse. How can your lifetime plan for giving be a ‘testament for good’?
